W.J.C. Charges Egypt, Iraq Wreck Jews

The World Jewish Congress issued a White Paper on the plight of the Jewish minorities in Egypt and Iraq.

The paper, released at headquarters of the Congress, 1834 Broadway, New York, by Dr. Nahum Goldmann, chairman of its executive committee, charged that "what is going on in Egypt and Iraq is a deliberate and calculated program to exterminate a defenseless minority group" and that "unless the tide of persecution is turned back, it threatens the total disinfranchisement and uprooting of large and efficient Jewish communities."

Dr. Goldmann said it was ironic that Egyptian delegates were members of the United Nations General Assembly that adopted provisions outlawing genocide, now awaiting ratification by the various countries, and the International Declaration of Human Rights.

"The Arab states have floated commitments in the United Nations Charter which seek to promote respect for human rights," Dr. Goldmann said. "I hope that upon receipt of the World Jewish Congress White Paper, the member nations of the United Nations will communicate to the governments of Egypt and Iraq their outrage over the mistreatment and abuse inflicted upon the Jews in those two countries."

The White Paper offers what it calls documentary proof of complicity of the governments of Egypt and Iraq and all organs of public opinion in the two countries in the "campaign of terror against the Jewish residents."

Quoting from recent legislation in the two Arab countries, and from [illegible] by neutral observers, the [illegible] that the campaign [illegible] and economic, says the paper, [illegible] the Palestine question was placed on the U. N. agenda. In the case of Iraq, the White Paper said, it dates back to 1930 but has now taken a virulent form.

"The humiliation of defeat in their war against Israel," the paper continued, "has intensified the anti-Jewish campaign, but it is by no means the main reason for the anti-Jewish measures in Egypt and Iraq. The governments of those two countries failed to solve the basic problems of adjusting the economic and social conditions of the population to the post-war situation and to the new ideas which, though slowly and under great handicap, are penetrating the Middle East. They required a scapegoat and the Jews have filled this role. Not to be overlooked are the material gains from the spoliation of Jewish property.

In Egypt, it is charged, the "responsible authorities, in their effort to divert popular discontent, not only remained passive but at-

BOLIVIAN PAMPHLETS CALL FOR POGROMS

The World Jewish Congress made public in New York a letter to Dr. Martinez Vargas, Bolivian ambassador at Washington, asking him to transmit to his government a request for official Bolivian action against a new series of anti-Semitic incitements which endanger the Jewish population of Bolivia. The letter, signed by Dr. Robert S. Marcus, director of the Political Department of the Congress, declared that the anti-Semitic campaign was being conducted by anti-Democratic elements in Bolivia and that the attacks actually were directed against the present democratic government of Bolivia.

The letter cited press and leaflet campaigns in many sections of Bolivia which called for pogroms against the Jews and the confining of the Jewish population to ghettos. One of the most vicious examples cited in the letter was a leaflet circulated in the Bolivian city of Cochabama by "The Friends of the People" which urged the population to "grasp weapons for the elimination of the Jewish race."

"Such activities," the letter pointed out, "are incompatible with the moral and legal obligations which flow from the exercise of fundamental freedoms of speech and information. These obligations have been recognized by the United Nations, their legal committees and specialized agencies."

Once Nazi Captive, Now U.S. Citizen

Six years spent in the Nazi concentration camp at Buchenwald, Germany, failed to [illegible] the first displaced person in the United States to become a citizen.

With him at the ceremony was his wife, the former Miss Alice Floraheim, who formerly resided at 189 East Fortieth Street, New York, and whose marriage to him made his early citizenship possible. They have been married for two years. Most of that time was spent by Dr. Heller working in hospitals in New York.

Dr. Heller was in Prague when the Nazis took over Czechoslovakia. An early victim of their purges, he was arrested in 1939 and sent immediately to Buchenwald. The fences around that camp were the limits of his world for six years while he unaccountably missed the frequent massacres of inmates.

The gates of Buchenwald opened for him when American forces captured the camp. Dr. Heller then went with the United States forces, working with them until April of 1946, when he was sent to the United States.

Agency Nails End Of Appeal Dispute

The Jerusalem Executive of the Jewish Agency for Palestine, in a cabled message to the American section of the agency, hailed the settlement of the dispute within the United Palestine Appeal and expressed hope that the appeal would continue "as a unifying central fund-raising agency for the upbuilding of Israel" in America.

The Executive, which embraces all political parties in Israel, noted "with particular satisfaction that the status and integrity of the historic Zionist funds have been maintained and their authority upheld." The message was addressed by Dr. Abba Hillel Silver, chairman of the American section of the Agency.

The Zionist funds referred to were the Keren Hayesod (Palestine Foundation Fund) and the Keren Kayemeth (Jewish National Fund), chief beneficiaries of the Appeal. They are devoted to immigration, rehabilitation and resettlement in Israel.

The Jerusalem Executive reported "complete solidarity with our colleagues in the United States of America" and added:

"We particularly desire to stress that the American section of the Jewish Agency, with its past record of great accomplishment in the political field, is entrusted, now as heretofore, with full responsibility for representing, guiding and supervising all activities on behalf of the Zionist movement and the Jewish Agency on the American scene and all organized effort connected with the upbuilding of Israel."

The message paid tribute to the Council of Jewish Federations and Welfare Funds in the negotiations that led to the settlement clarifying disbursement of funds and [illegible] United Service for New Americans are the beneficiaries of the funds raised by the United Jewish Appeal.

Settle Row Over Funds To Israel

The United Palestine Appeal and the Committee of Contributors and Workers settled their differences, assuring united fund-raising in America in 1949 in behalf of Jewish needs throughout the world.

Announcement of the settlement was made by Edwin Rosenberg, of New York, chairman of the conciliation committee of the Council of Jewish Federations and Welfare Funds, which conducted negotiations between the two groups in behalf of its 800 organized Jewish member communities of the United States. For the last several weeks the Palestine Appeal and the Committee of Contributors had differed on various policies relating to the campaign for funds for Israel.

The accord, the council's announcement said, "covered the powers and functions of the UPA, clarified procedures for disbursement and allocation of funds, composition of governing bodies, procedures for reconstituting the United Jewish Appeal, voting by mail or telegraph in certain circumstances, and provided for reconciliation of the Dec. 11-12 conference called by the Committee of Contributors."

One of the differences between the groups concerned the question of Jewish community representation on the governing bodies of The Palestine Appeal. It was agreed that 60 per cent of the representation on the bodies would be designated by the Palestine Foundation Fund (Keren Hayesod) and the Jewish National Fund (Keren Kayemeth), beneficiaries of the UPA, and 40 per cent representation would be from the American Jewish communities.

The Palestine Appeal had advocated 33 1/3 per cent Jewish community representation on its governing bodies. The Committee of Contributors had demanded 50 per cent.

The procedure for designation of community representatives will be determined by the Palestine appeal in consultation with the council and a small subcommittee of the Committee of Contributors will be available to the council for consultation regarding these procedures, the announcement said, adding:

"Subject to the above provisions, the UPA will elect its own officers, will determine the organization's administrative budget and all questions of staff personnel and will establish all rules of procedure required for the functions of the UPA."

Regarding the disbursement and allocation of funds, the announcement said:

"The income of the UPA will be made available with the greatest promptitude to the principal beneficiaries, namely the treasury of the Jewish Agency for Palestine and the head offices of the Palestine Foundation Fund and the Jewish National Fund in Israel. The UPA will disburse such funds through agencies and procedures authorized by these beneficiaries.

"The UPA will also be empowered to make its own recommendations regarding special allocations of grants for agencies other than the principal beneficiaries. Recommendations made by the American Palestine Foundation Fund and the Jewish National Fund will go to the UPA for consideration and action by it before they are transmitted to Israel. (Minority as well as majority reports may be transmitted.)

"Final decision on all grants and allocations rests with the head offices of the Palestine Foundation Fund and the Jewish National Fund in Israel and the Executive of the Jewish Agency. The UPA will negotiate an agreement with the JDC for setting up the UJA

DP Entry To U.S. Lags Far Below Plan

The movement of displaced persons to the United States under the Displaced Persons Act of 1948 continues to lag.

According to the International Refugee Organization, one shipload of 802 refugees left Europe for the United States in November, and two ships carrying a total of 850 left or will leave during December. This compares with planned movements of five ships in November and seven in December.

The organization's headquarters said at Geneva, Switzerland, it was hoped to move seven ships in January. A spokesman stressed the many difficulties in getting the program under way, but was unable to cite any special reasons for the limited movements.

In June IRO officials had said that as far as organization's end of the matter was concerned they would be ready to move 10,000 monthly by October. There have not been 10,000 moved to the United States altogether since Displaced Persons Act went into effect. With nearly half a year of the act's effectiveness gone, there has been barely a start on the program of 205,000 refugees authorized for 1948-49.

Figures for the movement of refugees during October showed the United States still was taking fewer than Canada, Australia, Brazil, Argentina and only a few more than Britain. On the whole October was a good month with 21,303 refugees finding new homes or returning to old ones. The United States received 1,400.

The IRO is trying hard to avoid criticising anyone for the slow [illegible] the United States. As [illegible] hands of persons have [illegible] final [illegible] by [illegible] told that the shortage of shipping was no longer a major factor governing the movements of refugees out of Europe. Several times in recent months ships have been delayed awaiting passengers.

IRO sources say that the United States Consulates in Germany have greatly improved and speeded up their procedures for screening applicants and giving security checks. Consular officials now go to camps to carry out the processing for visas, instead of making displaced persons trek long distances to the consulates. Consular staffs have been increased.

It seems, nevertheless, to be an excess of paperwork somewhere in the United States governmental machinery that is frustrating the program. Professional refugee administrators say privately that they suspect the Displaced Persons Commission is short of both money and trained personnel needed to handle the number of immigrants contemplated by Congress, reports the New York Times. Both Americans and Europeans experienced in dealing with refugee movements since the war have always maintained that the United States act was practically impossible to administer.

Morgenthau Assails Britain On Cyprus Jews

An appeal to Prime Minister Clement Attlee of Great Britain and to former Prime Minister Winston Churchill for the immediate release of the 11,000 Jewish refugees on the Mediterranean island of Cyprus was made in New York by Henry Morgenthau Jr., general chairman of the $250,000 United Jewish Appeal campaign.

The former U.S. Secretary of the Treasury cabled to the two leaders that the refugees in British camps on the island of Cyprus, among them 600 babies, were receiving inhuman treatment.

"At this time of the year, when the entire world is seeking to give proper expression to the spirit of brotherhood," Mr. Morgenthau cabled, "I address this earnest appeal to you to let my people go. If the British people could see the intolerable conditions under which the Cyprus refugees live, they would demand that the refugees be freed to leave for Israel at once."

Mr. Morgenthau also asked Mr. Churchill to intervene with the British Government to bring about the release of the refugees.

"The world cannot forget these helpless people without committing a great crime against humanity and against the principles of human freedom which Britain and the United States fought so hard to preserve," Mr. Morgenthau said.

He stressed the fact that the people and Government of Israel are eager and anxious to receive "the Cyprus prisoners" and give them an opportunity to build new lives. Mr. Morgenthau pointed out also that of the 11,900 Jews in the Cyprus concentration camps at least 50 per cent have been there for two years, another 25 per cent for more than [illegible] and [illegible]

U.S. Policy Favors Help To DP On Way To Israel

The executive committee of the International Refugee Organization meeting in Rome, Italy, has decided to take up the problem of whether the organization should finance the immigration of refugees to Israel at its next special session on January 25.

The refugee immigration to Israel gave rise to a strong statement of United States policy in the matter by the American delegate, George L. Warren in the last closed meeting of the executive committee, according to the New York Times.

The British delegation had proposed that the organization should continue its policy, announced on May 18 of this year, of not participating in the movements of refugees from Europe to any of the countries in the Middle East engaged in the hostilities in Palestine. This proposal was opposed by Mr. Warren who said the United States would not agree to any policy that involved discrimination in the resettlement of refugees, particularly in Palestine.

Mr. Warren contended that there was no basis for the argument that the immigration of Jews to Palestine made it impossible to repatriate Arab refugees. He pointed out that the vast majority of Jewish refugees were being resettled in new agricultural settlements and in new houses not previously occupied by Arabs.

As for the argument that the organization should not send displaced persons to the area, Mr. Warren described it as "specious," saying that Jewish displaced persons were anxious to go to Israel, that there was no evidence that those who had gone [illegible] for [illegible]

Nitkin, Esplanade Avenue, at which about twenty guests were present. Mrs. Schnapp was presented with a bone china cream and sugar set.

Miss Pauline Shapiro, 6560 Durocher Avenue, fiancee of Samuel Fried, 622 McEachran Avenue, and a bride-elect of January 23, was entertained at a luncheon presentation at the Mount Royal Hotel, by Mrs. H. Green, 121 Villeneuve Street West. Mrs. Green wore a black suit, with black beaded embroidery, and a green hat; and the honoree, who wore a green suit with a cocoa-brown hat, was presented with an ecru-shaded cutwork linen banquet cloth and napkins.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Sher, Jeanne Mance Street, entertained at a luncheon and in celebration of the engagement of their only daughter, Rina, to Cecil, eldest son of Mr. [illegible]

[illegible] and Mrs. [illegible] black crepe dress, with an ornament on one of the pockets. Mrs. Lebofsky wore a brown crepe dress trimmed with embroidery, and Mrs. A. Sher, aunt of the bride, a brown crepe dress, with pearls.

Mr. and Mrs. M. Zwecker, de Bullion Street, entertained sixteen guests at a sweet table, and then a dinner party, in honor of the engagement of their daughter, Phyllis, to Thomas (Merman), son of Mr. and Mrs. M. Zemelman, Esplanade Avenue, whose marriage takes place on March 18. Mrs. Zwecker wore a black crepe dress, trimmed with silver beading, and a black hat; Mrs. Zemelman, a black crepe dress, with a black hat; and Miss Zwecker, a grey wool-crepe two-piece dress, embroidered with rhinestones, and a gray hat. The table was adorned with white and red carnations.

Morris Clapoff, son of Mrs. H. Clapoff, 890 Davaar Avenue, fiance of Miss Eileen Marcovitch, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Marcovitch, Ducharme Avenue, who are to be married on January 8, at the Mount Royal Hotel, was entertained at a stag party presentation at Suffrin's, at which about one hundred guests were present. In charge of arrangements were: Isidore Myers, Maplewood Avenue; A. B. Kastner, Dollard Avenue; Joseph Leibovitch, Lansdowne Avenue; Hy. Leibovitch, Jeanne Mance Street; Nat. Nadel, Ponsard Avenue; and Alex Shtull, Willowdale Avenue.

Dr. and Mrs. I. A. Schlesinger, 59 St. Catherine Road, celebrated the sixteenth birthday of their daughter, Nina Mae, who is the granddaughter of Mr. and Mrs. M. Marcovitz, 286 Querbes Avenue; and of Mr. and Mrs. S. Schlesinger, 722b Querbes Avenue; and great-granddaughter of Mrs. Samuel Viner, 285 Querbes Avenue. There was a dinner and dancing party for forty-two of her friends, at which Nina Mae wore a green changeable taffeta ballerina-length dress, in off-the-shoulder style, with back fullness, and a corsage of Talisman roses and snapdragons. There were arrangements of roses, pom-poms, snapdragons, Tea roses and carnations throughout the house. The following evening, about thirty-two guests, members of the family, were present for a buffet supper party.

Leonie and Esther, twin daughters of Mr. and Mrs. I. Birnbaum, Durocher Avenue, celebrated their sixteenth birthday. They are the sisters of Stanley, and granddaughters of Mrs. J. Cutler, Durocher Avenue, and Mrs. S. Birnbaum, Park Avenue. Luncheon was served for twenty-five girls. Leonie and Esther were maroon dresses, trimmed with silver bands, and silver shoes to match, and corsages of yellow Tea roses and Lilies-of-the-valley, gifts from [illegible] mother, Samuel Kerman [illegible]

[illegible] with roses and carnations, [illegible] Ben. Soltan, sister of Mrs. I. Birnbaum; Una Kerman and Nayna Birnbaum, cousins; and Mrs. J. Cutler, grandmother of the twins, assisted in serving.

Mr. and Mrs. M. Jurbin, 806 Laurier Avenue West, entertained about forty guests at a dinner and dancing party in honor of the sixteenth birthday of their daughter, Edith. Mrs. Jurbin wore a black silk jersey dress, and Edith wore white tulle, made with a V-neckline, and draped shoulder-line, and full skirt, with a corsage of red roses. Her younger sister, Anne, who assisted, wore a white blouse, with a grey and red wool jumper. Others present were: Mr. and Mrs. Sam. Shulman, Mr. and Mrs. H. Clapoff, brother-in-law and sister of Edith, and their daughter, Anita; Dr. Clara Sand and G. Sand, formerly of Italy, and now of Montreal; Mesdames Frances Listar, A. Bernstein, B. Aaronson, Sam. MARRIAGES

BARMASH-GOODENDAY

The marriage of Miss Shirley Goodenday, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. D. Goodenday, Esplanade Avenue, to Mortimer Barmash, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Barmash, Park Avenue, took place at the home of Reverend H. Rothlatt, 4367 Esplanade Avenue, who officiated, on December 7, at seven o'clock. The bride was given in marriage by her parents. The bride wore a powder-blue silk ankle-length dress, with a Chinese neckline, cap sleeves, bodice made with lace inserts, and a flared skirt. She had a pink straw hat, with flowers and tulle veiling, and carried a Bible, covered with orchids and lilies-of-the-valley. Miss Marilyn Goodenday, sister of the bride, was maid of honor, in a maroon crepe dress, and carried a nosegay of pink carnations. Louis Barmash was best man, with Martin Stephen Barmash as page boy. The room was decorated with various autumn flowers. Mrs. Goodenday, mother of the bride, received in a mandarin-red crepe dress, with a black hat, and a corsage of red and white roses; with Mrs. Barmash, mother of the groom, in a black crepe dress, with a black hat, and a corsage of pink and white carnations. The bride and groom left on a honeymoon trip to the Laurentians, the bride travelling in a gray woollen suit, with maroon accessories. They will live at 6014 Esplanade Avenue.

RAPPAPORT-PRICE

The marriage of Jenny (Janie), daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Israel Price, Esplanade Avenue, to Samuel, eldest son of Mr. and Mrs. Morris Rappaport, Casgrain Street, took place at Beth David Synagogue, on November 16, at eight o'clock, Rabbi I. Rose and Cantor I. Dlin, of Palestine officiating. The bride was given in marriage by her parents. She wore a white satin floor-length gown, with a high round neckline made of net and [illegible] fitting bodice and [illegible] ending in a long train. Her fingertip veil was held in place by a seed pearl bead tiara, and she carried a Bible, covered with white orchids, baby's breath, and streamers. Miss Sarah Price, sister of the bride, as maid of honour, wore a pale mauve net gown over a blue taffeta shirred bodice and full skirt, with a sequin sash. Her headdress was of pale mauve net with a tiara made of red roses, and she carried a hand bouquet of red roses. Misses Esther Rappaport, sister of the groom, and Cora Lillian Price, niece of the bride, as junior bridesmaids, wore slightly off-the-shoulder blue and pink gowns, with contrasting frills at the neckline and at the hemline. Their headdresses were coronet-shaped, made of pink carnations, and they carried nosegays of pink carnations and pom-poms. Sandra Barbara Price, niece of the bride, and Roslyn Sailer, as flower girls, wore identical floor-length dresses in peach and green taffeta, with contrasting peach and green bows at the hemline. Their headdresses were coronet-shaped, of pink carnations, and they carried nosegays of pom-poms and pink carnations. Ben. Rappaport, brother of the groom, was best man. The ushers were: Hyman Price, brother of the bride; Harry Rappaport, brother of the groom; Hyman Rappaport, uncle of the groom; Joseph Titleman, Morty Hopkins, cousins of the groom; Abe Baserman, and David Stendel. Sheldon George Price, nephew of the bride, was page boy, in full dress. Candelabra entwined with bouquets of flowers, ferns, and seasonal flowers were used as decorations. A choir sang and "Because" was sung. A prayer was sung by one of the choir boys, Mrs. Price, mother of the bride, received in a Burgundy-wine-colored gown, with matching hat and accessories, a bib of pearl beads, and a corsage of Tea roses; with Mrs. Rappaport, mother of the groom, in a royal-blue floor-length gown with rhinestone jewellery, a royal-blue hat, with pink feathers and a corsage of deep pink carnations. The bride and groom left for New York on their honeymoon, the former travelling in a navy-blue woollen gabardine suit, with a fur coat, navy-blue hat and accessories, and a corsage of white gardenias. They will live at 3570 Durocher Avenue. Noah Frenkel and son, Nathan, and daughter, Helene, all of Forest Hills, Long Island, N. Y., uncle, and cousins of the bride, were present.

Mrs. A. Feldman, 644 St. Germain Street, Montreal, is social chairman of the Council of Units of the Jewish Hospital of Hope, in charge of the Chanukah festival, to be held on the evening of December 26, at Adath Israel Congregation. Other members of the committee are: Mesdames S. Cohen, J. Isaac, and H. P. Stark, assisted by the following convenors, Mesdames H. Oberfield, H. Bercovitch, and D. Jacobitsky.

HART-FREEDMAN

The marriage of Mimi, daughter of Mrs. Albert Freedman, Cavendish Boulevard, to William B. Hart, of Long Island, N.Y., son of Mr. and Mrs. Claude B. Hart, formerly of Montreal, took place on Tuesday, December 14, at three o'clock, at the home of Philip B. Hart, Grey Avenue, uncle of the bride and of the groom. Dr. Solomon Frank, Rabbi, officiated. The bride was attended by her sister, Mrs. Annette Holder, as matron of honor; and Harry Shapiro was best man. Mr. and Mrs. Claude B. Hart, parents of the groom; and Mr. and Mrs. B. M. Russell, of Kingston, Ont., brother-in-law and sister of the bride, were present. The bride [illegible] at Long Island, N.Y.

Warns Faiths Must Be Sincere

Dr. Robert Gordis, Rabbi of Temple Beth El, Rockaway Park, Queens, New York, was installed as president of the Synagogue Council of America in ceremonies at the Spanish and Portguese Synagogue, Central Park West and Seventieth Street. Dr. Gordis succeeded Rabbi William F. Rosenblum as president of the council. The ceremonies also marked the twentieth anniversary of the establishment of the Council, which consists of rabbinical and lay organizations of the Orthodox, Conservative and Reform Jews in America.

In accepting his post Rabbi Gordis said that Jews are bound together not by political, military or geographical forces but by a common religio-ethical culture.

Rabbi Rosenblum warned that all religions will lose prestige and popularity "unless the major religious bodies of the world can establish a fellowship of faiths which the man in the street can regard as sincere and secure."

"Differences lend zest and color to life," Rabbi Rosenblum continued, "but the moment they are developed to the point of bigotry or isolationism they become spiritual poisons for which there are few antidotes."

Justice Meier Steinbrink of the New York Supreme Court who participated in the ceremonies, asserted that American Jews must rally their forces not only in defense of Judaism but of Americanism and of civilization itself.

"The worst of all errors," Justice Steinbrink said, "is to believe that any one religion has the monopoly of goodness for every man. That religion is good which makes him gentle, upright, and kind."

A Sixteenth-Century Jewish Statesman

By Dr. Leon Liebreich, Gratz College, Philadelphia, Pa.

Anti-Semitism, displaced persons, immigration restrictions, refugees, Cyprus, Palestine! What a familiar ring these words have! They seem to be drawn from the daily newspaper. Will it surprise anybody to learn that in Jewish history they are rather ancient terms? If they recur today, they are merely a stern reminder of the persistence of the Jewish problem and of the imperative need of efforts to arrive at a solution.

That the same aspects of the Jewish problem existed and the same types of solution were proposed four hundred years ago, may be learned from a reading of Dr. Cecil Roth's new volume of biography, The House Of Nasi, The Duke Of Naxos, which has just been published by The Jewish Publication Society of America, and which is a sequel to the same author's The House Of Nasi, Dona Gracia, likewise published under the auspices of The Society a few months ago.

The reader is introduced to a most interesting account of the life of Joseph Nasi, one of the most influential Jews of sixteenth-century Europe. Two generations had elapsed since the expulsion of the Jews from Spain. Its effect, however, was still being felt in the dislocation of Jews and their desperate search for new homes. Unlike the victims of Hitler's racial anti-Semitism, the sixteenth century D.P.'s were not only territorially, but also spiritually displaced persons. Our hero, Joseph Nasi, was one of these, for he had been a New Christian, or Marrano, before embracing Judaism.

The doors to the various lands of Europe were tightly shut to Jewish refugee immigrants. The one exception was Turkey. After wandering from one country to another, Joseph Nasi at last lays down the [illegible] pursuit in the most important [illegible] repose capitals. His "underground" connections enable him to put a most efficient "intelligence service" at the disposal of the Turkish government. He also has recourse to other means of ingratiating himself with the Sultan. Thus he proves himself a most valuable asset to the state, for which he is duly rewarded in time. The reward? The Duchy of Naxos!

Despite his impressive rise to power and influence, Joseph Nasi is not unaware of the basic precariousness of his position. The precious honors and prize he has won must be constantly guarded. He must be ever on the alert. The Sultan's court teems with intrigue. Nasi's success and prominence stir up jealousy of, and hatred for, the Jew. Intense anti-Jewish feeling lurks beneath the superficial and questionable compliments of supposed friends. He is the Duke of Naxos, but duke in absentia. A trusted friend is the lieutenant-governor of the duchy. Nasi himself dares not allow distance to separate him from the presence of the Sultan for fear of falling from grace. Only in nearness to the ruling power is there comparative safety for him.

Joseph Nasi and his illustrious aunt, Dona Gracia, evince keen interest in their fellow-Jews. The Duchy of Naxos is unsuitable as a haven of refuge for their harassed co-religionists. But other prospects appear on the political horizon. The Kingship of Cyprus for Joseph Nasi looms as a fair possibility. Yet he is doomed to bitter disappointment. His hope of becoming King of Cyprus and of establishing there large-scale Jewish colonization was not to be realized. In envisaging, however dimly, in Cyprus a possible solution to the Jewish problem, Nasi was the forerunner of the Uganda proposal in modern times.

Palestine as the supreme answer to Israel's woes also figures prominently in the biography of Joseph Nasi. Though once again his aunt pointed the way, Nasi, nevertheless, displays originality in his approach to Palestine as the ultimate solution of the Jewish problem. A Jewish settlement in Palestine had been one of Dona Gracia's favorite [illegible] the study of the Torah, undisturbed by economic considerations.

Joseph Nasi, on the other hand, with an almost uncanny farsightedness bordering on prophetic insight, beheld, beyond the all im-

Molly Picon Is Back

Most young actresses in search of a career make a beeline for Broadway, despite that avenue's reputation for breaking youthful hearts. But Molly Picon, who made the grade and became a star, did so by staying away from Broadway. In New York's Yiddish theater, on the lower East Side, she built up such a reputation as an actress, singer and comedienne that finally Broadway came to her.

Like many another well known star, Miss Picon began her stage life in vaudeville. She might have continued if it had not been for a chance interview which changed her whole life, both professionally and personally. She met a young man, Jacob Kalich, who was the manager of a successful theater in Boston. Kalich appraised her talents, fell in love and married her, and persuaded her to fit herself for playing before Yiddish audiences. American-born Miss Picon hardly knew Yiddish, but went to Europe to learn it. Then she came back to the United States to play for her own people in their language.

The Yiddish theater is one of the most interesting folk theaters in America. Drama lovers, who brought with them from their native Germany, Austria, Poland or Russia an intense appreciation of the theater, gave Jewish-American communities a drama all their own. The Yiddish theater audience, it is said, is like a big family. All the family goes to the theaters. The theater is a part of the social life of a Jewish community. When the audience loves a star, they express their approval whole-heartedly. And so Miss Picon, after endearing herself to them in a series of human musical comedies written for her by her husband, Jacob Kalich, became and remains "The Idol of the Yiddish Stage," "The Little Queen of Second Avenue."

Uptown on Broadway, critics heard of Miss Picon, her amazing comedy sense, and her uncanny gift for mimicry, says the New York Herald Tribune. They traveled down to Second Avenue, wrote newspaper articles about her and so, without leaving her own community, Molly Picon became a celebrity. Broadway came seeking her. Europe called, too, and before the war she had played with success in Paris, Vienna and London.

Miss Picon last appeared on Broadway in "Morning Star" described as a cavalcade of Jewish life in America from 1910 to 1931. She [illegible] playing in the English-speaking theater and is happy in

FREEDMAN-BOOKSPAN

The marriage of Beatrice, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Bookspan, 930 Bloor Street West, to Julius Freedman, son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Freedman, 6 Beatrice Street, took place on November 4, at six o'clock, at Bais Yehuda Synagogue. Rabbi A. Kelman officiated, assisted by Cantor David Green. The bride was given in marriage by her parents. Her white brocaded satin gown was fashioned with a round neckline, tight bodice, bustle-back, and full skirt. Her white brocaded satin mantilla headdress was draped with a long veil, and she carried a white prayer book, covered with white ribbon streamers. Mrs. Samuel Wagman, sister of the bride, was matron of honour, gowned in pink brocaded satin, with off-the-shoulder neckline, and bustle skirt, with matching gloves. She had a matching mantilla headdress and short pink veil, and carried a cascade of pink roses. The bridesmaids were: Misses Eva Baltman, Belle Menkes, and Mrs. M. Kirsh, sister of the groom. All were pale blue brocaded satin gowns, fashioned with off-the-shoulder necklines, bustle-back, and had matching gloves. Their headdresses were matching mantillas with short powder-blue veils, and they carried cascades of American Beauty roses. Marilyn Goldberg was flower girl, dressed in pink taffeta, with a matching bonnet, and carried a basket of pink rose petals. Max Kirsh, brother-in-law of the groom, was best man and ushers were: Samuel Wagman, Leo Grad, and Maurice Fagan. Jaffrey Simon, cousin of the bride, of Cleveland, Ohio, was ring-bearer, in full dress. The reception took place at Club Top Hat which was decorated with white and yellow chrysanthemums, ferns and candelabra. Mrs. Bookspan received in a powder-blue faille gown, with a corsage of American Beauty roses; Mrs. Freedman, mother of the groom, wearing a gray faille gown, with a corsage of pink roses. The bride and groom left for a wedding trip to New York, the former wearing an American Beauty-coloured suit, with a white blouse, black accessories, and a corsage of white orchids. The bride and groom will reside at 255 Montrose Avenue. Out-of-town guests for the wedding were: Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Perry, brother-in-law and sister of the bride, of Erie, Pa.; Mr. and Mrs. A. Oskowski, uncle and aunt of the bride; Mrs. J. Fine, and Mrs. R. Simon and family, cousins of the bride, of Cleveland, Ohio; Mr. and Mrs. L. Kirshenblatt, of Wingham; Mr. and Mrs. S. Lewis, of Hamilton; Mr. and Mrs. H. Atrubin, cousins of the bride, of Kitchener; and Mr. and Mrs. D. Bookspan, cousins of the bride, of Bowmanville.

Sam Godfrey, 17 Old Park Road, Toronto, was elected president of Goel Tzedec Congregation. Other officers are: Charles Foster, E. Pullan, L. H. Penkins, Judge Samuel Factor, chairman of board of governors; Harry Pullan, Max Cooper. Board of governors: Louis Berger; B. Cadesky, L. Gaiber, A. Glassberg, J. B. Goldhar, B. Hillman, M. L. Keyfetz, W. Lefkot, I. Markus, J. I. Rotbenan, N. M. Hvatch, M. Rotenberg, S. V. Roth, Alex Sossin, H. I. Shapiro, F. A. Silverman, Dr. M. L. Stone, and I. D. Wisman. Dr. M. L. Perlzweig is senior rabbi; Rabbi E. F. Elaburn, educational director.

Eckler, 111a Fendrith Street, took place on November 7, at half-past five o'clock, at Yeshiva Torah Chaim, Rabbi A. Price officiating, assisted by Rev. Boris Charloff. The bride was given in marriage by her parents. Her white brocaded satin gown was made with an off-the-shoulder neckline, long sleeves, narrowing to the wrists, and fitted bodice, with a full skirt, padded hips, and bustle. Her Dutch cap was arranged with a finger-tip veil, and she carried a white Bible, covered with a white orchid and white roses, trimmed with white streamers. Miss Rae Shafer was maid of honour. In primrose-yellow taffeta, fashioned with a sweetheart neckline, tight bodice, with padded hips and a full skirt, she had a large turquoise-blue plume in her hair, and carried a bouquet of Talisman and pink roses, trimmed with a turquoise-blue ribbon. Irene Richman was junior bridesmaid, dressed in pale green taffeta, fashioned similarly to the gown of the maid of honour, with a matching green cloche, trimmed with yellow feathers, and carried a nosegay of Talisman and pink roses, trimmed with yellow ribbon. Eleanor Richmond and Sharon Richmond, cousins of the bride, were flower girls, dressed in orchid-coloured taffeta, fashioned with an off-the-shoulder neckline, and hooped skirt, trimmed with dark orchid-coloured velvet. Their matching headdresses were tied with ribbon under their chins and they carried baskets of pink and rose-coloured rose petals. Gordon Berman was best man, and the ushers were: Harry Weiner, Harshel Shore, Harry Brinder, Howard Kline, Samuel Davis, Harold Mosoff, Melvin Goldberg, Saul Mintz, and Brian Eckler. The reception took place in the synagogue. Mrs. Richman, mother of the bride, in a blue metallic gown, with a train, and a corsage of yellow orchids and navy-blue accessories, received with Mrs. Eckler, mother of the groom, in gray crepe gown, trimmed with silver and black beading, a corsage of purple orchids, and gray accessories. The bride and groom left for a wedding trip to New York, the former wearing a midnight-blue gabardine suit and hat, with navy accessories, and a gray Persian lamb coat. The bride and groom will reside at 2426 Danforth Avenue. Out-of-town guests were: Mr. and Mrs. J. Snitman, Gordon Berman, Mrs. G. Black, Mr. and Mrs. D. Black, Mr. and Mrs. F. Berman and family, and Mr. and Mrs. F. Oppenheim, all of Detroit, Mich.; Mr. and Mrs. J. Jacobs and family, of Cleveland, Ohio; Mr. and Mrs. S. Sussler, of Montreal, Que.; Mr. and Mrs. [illegible]

GIFT TO ISRAEL HONORS MARCUS

An ambulance for Israel was presented to the Brooklyn League, Red Magen Dovid, in memory of the late Colonel David Marcus, former City Commissioner of Correction, who was killed last June while leading Israeli troops near Jerusalem. The vehicle, to be used at the proposed Colonel David Marcus Blood Plasma Laboratory in Tel Aviv, Israeli capital, was given to the league by the Marcus Memorial Foundation, Inc., in a ceremony at Brooklyn Borough Hall.

Borough President John Cashmore, honorary chairman of the campaign for funds to build the plasma laboratory, told a crowd of 1,000 at the ceremony that the proposed building will be the only plasma station in the entire Middle East and will serve Israel in peace as well as in war. The laboratory will cost $250,000 to build, and the land already has been purchased.

The Marcus Memorial Foundation is composed of friends and associates of Colonel Marcus. The fund drive for the plasma station is being conducted by the Brooklyn League and the Independent Order of Brith Abraham.

portant religious motivation, the agricultural, industrial and commercial possibilities inherent in the rebuilding of Palestine. Accordingly, he initiated the experiment. Unfortunately, it failed. And all that can be said is that to Joseph Nasi belongs the credit of being one of the early forerunners of Herzlian Zionism.

Most appropriately Dr. Roth has dedicated the biography of Joseph Nasi to Chaim Weizmann, first president of the new State of Israel. The book is written in the same masterly style, to which the author's previous works have accustomed us. If further proof were needed that history, as Macaulay has said, is philosophy teaching by example, the present work furnished it most amply. The writing of history with Dr. Roth ceases to be a "dry as dust" affair, and becomes full of human interest and appeal.

CLASS IN COOKERY

SWEET AND SOUR FISH

one medium-sized pickerel (sliced)
one-half teaspoonful salt
one-quarter teaspoonful pepper one onion
one-quarter teaspoonful mixed spices
one-half cup vinegar
three tablespoonsful sugar

Boil the above ingredients for three-quarters of an hour. When cooled slice lemon and place around casserole and pour fish on the top of lemon. Put in the frigidaire and allow to jell.

Mrs. Abraham Litowitz,
1142 Queen Street East, Toronto.

COCOA-CHIFFON CAKE

Pre-heat oven to about 325 degrees. Stir until smooth, and then cool, one-quarter cup boiling water and one-quarter cup cocoa. Then measure, with level measurements, and sift together into bowl: one cup cake flour, one cup white sugar, one and one-half teaspoons double-action baking powder, and one-half teaspoon salt. Make a well in flour mixture, and add in order: one quarter cup cooking oil, three unbeaten egg-yolks, the cooled cocoa mixture, and one-half teaspoon vanilla. Beat with mixing spoon until smooth, for about two minutes. Measure into a large mixing bowl, the three egg-whites, and one-quarter teaspoon cream of tartar. Whip until whites are in very stiff peaks. It is important that they are not under-beaten. Then pour egg-yolk mixture over the whites, folding the whites in with a rubber scraper, just until blended. This cannot be stirred. Pour immediately into an ungreased sponge-cake tin, and bake for forty or forty-five minutes, or until top springs back when lightly touched, in oven not higher than 350 degrees. Reverse cake in tin, on a cake-rack, and let stand until cool, and then remove tin.

Icing

Beat together with rotary beater, for about five minutes: one cup icing sugar, one small egg, one-quarter cup milk, three squares melted bitter chocolate, and one teaspoon soft shortening, and one-half teaspoon vanilla.

Mrs. S. Rabinovitch,
700 St. Catherine Road, Montreal.

This recipe was co-winner for first prize in the cake class, with that of Mrs. H. Darmer, 4882 Melrose Avenue, Montreal, in the contest sponsored by the Ladies' Auxiliary of Mount Sinai Sanatorium.

Parents Get Medals Of Famous Son

The parents of the late M/Sgt. Meyer Levin, the Brooklyn hero who flew with Capt. Colin Kelly in the Pacific fighting, received sight of their son's posthumous medals from Maj. Gen. Robert M. Webster at First Air Force Headquarters, Fort Slocum.

The awards were received by Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Levin, 1504 East Thirty-third Street, Brooklyn, N.Y., who declared they were "proud to give our son in service to the United States." Also present at the ceremonies was Col. Gordon H. Austin, operations officer, who was a lieutenant in Sergeant Levin's squadron at Hickham Field early in the war.

The decorations, previously authorized but for which the medals had not yet been awarded, consisted of the second Oak Leaf Cluster to the Silver Star Medal, Distinguished Unit Emblem with six Oak Leaf Clusters, American Defense Service Medal with one bronze star, American Campaign Medal, Asiatic-Pacific Campaign Medal with six battle stars, Philippine Defense Ribbon, World War II Victory Medal and Good Conduct Medal.

Sergeant Levin received the [illegible] killed. He was killed off New Britain, however, in January, 1943, when he went to the rear of the plane to free life rafts and drowned when the plane sank. It was for this action that he received the second cluster in lieu of a third Silver Star for gallantry.

College Youth Fights Bias

Fifty young college men and women between the ages of 17 and 23 participated in a six-day conference recently under the joint sponsorship of the National Conference of Christians and Jews and the American Jewish Committee. The young delegates, chosen for leadership qualities displayed as members of Protestant, Jewish, Catholic and Negro organizations, represented some 15 colleges in the New York area.

The conference was held for the purpose of developing among young people of all faiths and several racial backgrounds a better understanding of one another and the problems facing them today as individuals and as members of their respective groups. The conference was planned to consider not merely the bases of prejudice and discrimination, but primarily how to combat these manifestations of bigotry. The general theme of the six-day deliberations was "Action Toward Better Human Relations."

Group analyses and round-table discussions on topics of importance to all young people, as well as folk dancing, swimming and other forms of recreation, were among the activities of the conference, held at the Minden estate in Bridgehampton, L.I. Christian Westphalen, New York regional director of the NCCJ, and Samuel Fishzohn, AJC youth division head, were co-directors.

• CANADIAN JEWISH CONGRESS has taken up with the Department of External Affairs of the Federal Government the suspension by the IRO (United Nations-sponsored International Refugee Organization) of the movement of refugees to Israel. At a [illegible] the burden of maintaining DP's, sponsors and pays for the migration of such DP's to various countries, especially when such DP's or their relatives have no financial resources. Thus the IRO has paid the travel costs of many displaced persons who have come to Canada. However, since the establishment of the State of Israel, the IRO has suspended the sponsorship of refugees going to Israel on the ground that the Israeli authorities could not guarantee the security of these DP's. In order that this decision may not delay the departure of these DP's, the American Jewish Joint Distribution Committee, with which the Congress is closely associated, has been paying the costs of this transportation which amounts to $1,500,000 per month. In order to obtain funds for this emergency the JDC has had to borrow heavily. In its representations to the Canadian Department of External Affairs, the Congress pointed to the obligations which the IRO has assumed in its constitution to the transportation costs of displaced persons. The Congress asked that the Canadian representatives on the executive committee of the IRO insist that the organization carry out its mandate and pay for the transportation of all who are legally going to Israel. Dr. Simchah Petrushka, student in rabbinics, has been appointed research consultant on archives and library by the Congress. Dr. Petrushka has published a translation of the Mishnah into the Yiddish, with a running commentary. The six-volume work of which the last volume has just appeared, has won for him the Lamed Prize. Dr. Petrushka expects that his further research will take him to the Hebrew University

FEDERATED COUNCIL OF PALESTINE INSTITUTIONS

MR. A. FLEISHER, President
MR. G. SALOMON, Treasurer

Our Executive-Director, Mr. S. Pollack, has just returned from the Maritime Provinces, where he was successful in organizing branch offices of the Federated Council of Palestine Institutions.

In Moncton, N.B., the reply to Mr. S. Pollack's appeal on behalf of our 100 institutions in Israel was very successful. Not only did the following become directors of our Council in Moncton, but immediately gave their contributions, thus strengthening the aims of the Council in sending help to all the institutions.

A. Levine	N. Schelew	A. Lackman
J. Marks	Rubin Bros.	I. Gordon
J. Kirsch	Selick Bros.	M. A. Freeman
N. Cohen

In St. John, N.B., the following officers pledged a yearly allocation to the 100 institutions comprised in our Council:

Joshua Lieberman	Ben Guss
Myer Budovitch	William Kaplansky
Jack Freeman

In Fredericton, N.B., the following officers were organized into a committee:

M. Margolian	B. Velinsky
P. M. Levine	H. Budovitch

and with many others have pledged to give full support to our worthy cause.

CHANUKAH LAMPS IN THE JEWISH MUSEUM ARE THE RICHEST

By Dr. Guido Schoenberger, Research Fellow Of The Jewish Museum

One of the most original and most outspoken features of Jewish art is its intrinsic ability of creating the forms of ceremonial objects. This applies especially to the various lamp forms. The significant role attributed to the light in general and to the kindling of lights on the Sabbath and Festival Days guided the artistic power of the Jewish people in this direction. Chanukah, the Festival recalling the purification of the Temple by the Maccabees and with it the rekindling of the renewed candlestick of the Temple is solemnly and joyfully the Festival of Light par excellence.

To the historically established facts which caused the festival's celebration a gentle legend was added in Talmudic times telling that one small bottle of oil found unspoiled lasted for eight days to feed the candlestick of the rededicated Temple. Soon the custom was established to kindle for eight days in a row, one more light each evening until the impressive row of eight lights was burning. This created a lamp with eight burners to which a ninth, a servant lamp or shamash, was added which kindled the festival lights.

There are two basically different types of Chanukah lamps, one being clearly connected with the form of the Temple Menorah, a lamp-stand having a center stem and four branches on each side carrying the eight lamps, the shamash being attached to the center stem; the other consisting of a low horizontal row of eight figurated burners attached to a backwall of triangular or arched form fitting for hanging on the wall or standing on a table; here the shamash is attached to most often to the upper right. Up to the 18th century oil was used exclusively, about 1850 the use of kindling the Chanukah lamp is proved by the sources, no example is preserved prior to the late middle ages which can be truly called a Chanukah lamp. As in many other cases of ceremonial objects the Talmud is unconcerned about its artistic form. The purity of the fuel, the purity of the material of the wick is discussed which guarantees the purity of the light itself; this is what matters first; secondly the place is mentioned where the lamp should be kindled: in the private home of the Jewish family, on the doorpost opposite the mezuzah or on the window sill that it can be seen from the street and everybody can partake in recalling the glorious fact of the rededication of the Temple. Only in time of danger it should be put in the interior of the room.

Thus the early history of the forms of the Chanukah lamp itself remain hypothetic. Since the rekindling of the seven-branched candlestick is so important an act in the genesis of the festival, one might be inclined to presume that early Chanukah lamps were similar to the Temple Menorah. But this most likely was not the case, because a duplication of the objects of the temple service was forbidden by Talmudic law. On the other hand, as the lamp was used in the Jewish home only, we may assume that the form was similar to the general forms of rather small Mediterranean oil lamps adapted to eight wicks. In fact, one or two examples of this kind are preserved. However their use as Chanukah lamps is not certain.

Perhaps in the beginning, just one-wick lamps were placed together, one more every day; yet in the course of time these lamps were combined in one continuous row of eight figurated burners. With the 18th century the Chanukah lamp was kindled also in the synagogue and this might have caused the revival of the form of the Temple Menorah, the change from six to eight branches and from seven to nine lights including the shamash being a change sufficient not to harm the aforementioned Talmudic law.

The Jewish Museum in New York possesses a collection of Chanukah lamps which is, as far as the variety of forms and the importance of single examples is concerned, the most extensive and richest in existence, due to many donors but especially to the efforts of the collector, Dr. Harry G. Friedman. A choice of the best is on permanent display in the Museum, many are sent all over the country to various exhibitions and the rest always accessible for study in the well-organized store collection. The collection offers a unique possibility to compare the forms of lamps from the 16th century on all of the important groups of the Diaspora.

Eastern European and Mediterranean lamps are made mostly of brass or bronze, so are the Dutch lamps of the 17th and 18th century; Western Europe, especially Germany, prefers pewter and silver, but there is also a delicate group of silver filigree lamps made in Ukraine since the 19th century. Rare examples are made of pottery. Thorough study allows the establishment of local types of famous communities like Prague or Kiev, of Vienna or Frankfort. There are very few from America up to now; in this group the Museum would welcome any addition.

Still more significant than the difference in material are the varieties or ornaments found in the different parts of the Diaspora. In the east, including the Mediterranean, the tradition of the old symbolism of the Temple Menorah as the Tree of Life is predominant throughout the centuries, appearing very often on the backwall of the Chanukah lamps between lions or stags or birds like phoenixes, eagles or doves, very much in the same way as one finds it already in late antiquity. There appears also in the center of the backwall [illegible] or a Temple [illegible] even figural representations can be found, in the West or in Italy, the figure of Judith or Judas Maccabeus, in Prague the figures of Moses and Aaron.

In the East, the works are done mostly by Jewish masters, in the West mainly by Christian masters, since the Jews were excluded from the craftsman's guild. Therefore, we find in the West a much stronger influence of surrounding art and the Jewish symbols appear within an arrangement of beautiful but strongly secularized ornaments of the respective periods. As in all these sections, the Museum tries to connect the remote past with the living presence, thus modern pieces made in America or Eretz Israel are put on display along with the old works to show the tradition as well as the modern approach towards the task of creating a beautiful Chanukah lamp.

Let Jews Observe Chanukah And Let Christians Observe Christmas

Chanukah and Christmas occur simultaneously this year and we are glad for it. Both of these festivals are festivals of light, and the world is certainly in need of light and enlightenment. Jews at this season kindle Chanukah tapers in commemoration of the historic event of the Maccabean defeat over the Syrian pagans, and restoration of monotheism.

Christians kindle Christmas tapers recalling with homage the nativity of the Jewish child born in Bethlehem, born within the Jewish fold, who has become their inspiration for noble living. What a glorious opportunity Jewish parents have in the Chanukah observance to inculcate in the hearts of their children a love for the historic and heroic heritage of Israel! Why not have the Chanukah man come to the home, bringing gifts to the children on all eight days of the festival? Children will love Chanukah and they will no longer envy the Christian playmates who are the beneficiaries of Santa Claus on only one night.

With the greatest of reverence for Christian observance at all times, it ill becomes Jews to imitate the observances of their Christian neighbours. It is certainly no hardship to tell our Jewish children that in Jewish homes we light the beautiful Chanukah Menorah and not the beautiful Christmas tree. The Christmas tree is an observance that is strictly Christian and no matter what Jewish decorations we may place upon it, it is a symbol of the Christian faith and is not in harmony with Jewish observance, to say the least. If we wish truly to be respected it is most essential that we practice as Jews, and not indulge in being poor imitators of the goyim. Our Christian neighbours will respect us all the more.

Why not invite our Christian friends to our homes and demonstrate to them the beauty of the Chanukah festival? Why not have Christian children come to our homes and let them see how Jewish boys and girls light the Chanukah Menorah and sing old traditional hymns of the synagogue? Here is a grand opportunity of [illegible] tide so that Jewish children in turn may come to know and appreciate the great religion of Christianity. Thus shall we be able to advance the cause of better understanding between the adherents of the two great faiths. What a pity that Jews and Christians know so little of each other's religious heritage. Hence, the misunderstandings and the lack of appreciation for one another.

On all festivals of church and synagogue, there are the opportunities for the building of a meaningful religious fellowship. We should seize these opportunities and increase the cause of religion in the world.

The Synagogue In A New Age

Ours is a challenging age. A generation ago man was optimistic. He believed in progress and human advancement. However, the human situation in the present is in the reverse. Man is very pessimistic. Toynbee, the great historian of our day, speaks of the present age as a time of great anxiety. Church and synagogue have the great challenge of the present to restore faith in the hearts of men and women. Can the religious institutions meet the challenge?

Certainly, science, it is self-evident, can no longer be expected to bring salvation to the human race. In fact, the scientists in their own experimentations have reached a point where they themselves are in fear of their own creations. The atomic bomb has ushered in a new age indeed! Whither shall man escape from the fearful and destructive instruments which science has made possible? We can learn to control the scientific achievements and use these for constructive ends, providing we have a code of virtue by which to order our lives. Religion is the only force in the world which disciplines us into a way of life that will give decency to our society. This is the great task of religion in this very terrific hour of human history.

Religion is the very means which can provide for us courage to endure the tensions and anxieties of our day. Only by the comfort of religion can we manage to meet the hourly tribulations of the present. Not only are we perplexed by the personal tragedies that come to all of us, but we are also overwhelmed by the world irritations which perplex and disturb all peoples. Religion is the only philosophy which can give us vision, so essential that we may rise above the spiritual fog which has descended upon the human race. Without vision we shall indeed perish! If man is to be fit to live, his soul as well as his body must be sustained, and it is because man has neglected his soul that we to-day find ourselves in this terrifying age.

and for the conduct of the joint campaign."

The United Palestine Appeal, the Joint Distribution Committee and the United Service for New Americans are the principal beneficiaries of the united fund-raising.

Mr. Rosenberg announced that the Committee of Contributors had cancelled its scheduled conference in Atlantic City "in view of the settlement of the issues." He added:

"It is mutually expected by all concerned that upon the call to communities to designate their representatives, which will be done in accordance with the agreement, no vestige of any division affecting the UPA will be left."

In hailing the settlement, Mr. Rosenberg said that "communities throughout the nation will greet the news with enthusiasm and with renewed determination to raise maximum funds to meet the crucial needs of Israel during the coming year." The resolution of differences, the announcement said, would hasten reconstitution of the United Jewish Appeal, which had a goal of $250,000,000 this year.

Negotiators for the two groups, in a joint statement, said that the settlement "insures continuation of a united fund-raising effort in 1949 to meet the tremendous needs of Israel." They pledged themselves to work in behalf of immigration to Israel and to proceed "with the utmost urgency to establish the United Jewish Appeal for 1949."

Dr. Heller was one of three former prisoners in the Nazi horror camp at Buchenwald who told U.S. senators behind closed doors about the conduct of red-haired Ilse Koch, widow of the former camp commandant. Frau Koch has been accused of ordering prisoners killed so she could use their skin for lampshades, and of many bestialities, and has denied guilt. All testimony was kept secret, but Brig.-Gen. Emil Kiel told correspondents outside the hearing room he believed Frau Koch should serve a full life sentence for her part in Buchenwald atrocities. The Senate investigating subcommittee was seeking facts regarding the reduction of the woman's life sentence to four years. The reduction was approved by Gen. Lucius Clay, American military governor in Germany.

tempted to condone the excesses and in some instances even encouraged the mob."

The position of the Jews in Iraq, it is cited, is even more precarious than those in Egypt. Jews are prevented from leaving the country, it is charged; their property and goods have been frozen, Jewish officials of the government have been placed under house-arrest, and hundreds of Jews have been placed in internment camps on trumped-up charges without recourse to trial.

suffered in any way as a consequence of the hostilities.

In any case, he added, the movement of Jewish displaced persons to Israel is permitted by the United Nations Mediator and by the resolutions of the Security Council. Mr. Warren concluded by saying that Jews were clearly eligible for immigration to Israel under the organization's constitution, and there was no reason why they should be discriminated against.

No attempt was made to answer Mr. Warren's arguments. Several delegations stated they could not take any position in the matter under discussion till they had received instructions from their respective governments. It was finally agreed to defer any decision until January.

Israeli Rabbi Gets Award In N. Y.

The annual $1,000 Mordecai Ben David prize of Yeshiva University was awarded to Dr. Isaac Halevi Herzog, chief rabbi of Palestine, at a dinner at the Hotel Astor, in New York, celebrating the twentieth anniversary of the founding of the university's college of liberal arts and sciences.

Charles A. Silver, who presided, announced that Yeshiva University would be prepared to open a medical school in 1952.

James A. Farley, a speaker at the dinner, said:

"I am sure that a medical school as part of Yeshiva University deserves and will receive support not only from people of the Jewish faith but from men and women of all faiths.

"I want to congratulate Dr. Samuel Belkin, president of Yeshiva University, and the members of the Yeshiva faculty on their great strides toward bringing about a better understanding of Jewish cultural ideals."

Presentation of the award to Dr. Herzog was made by Dr. Leo Jung, Professor of Ethics at Yeshiva, and accepted on Dr. Herzog's behalf by a member of the Israeli mission in the United States.

In a transcribed message, Dr. Herzog expressed gratitude for the award and appreciation for aid Israel has received from the United States. He urged that this support be continued and increased.

G. S. Eyaseli, president of Radio City Music Hall, and George Schaefer, former president of Radio-Keith-Orpheum, received certificates of merit for many years of service to Yeshiva University as as chairmen of the Motion Picture Industry Scholarship Fund.

ABC and HIGH STANDARDS GO TOGETHER

In qualifying for membership in the Audit Bureau of Circulations, publishers are doing more than providing advertisers with the facts about the circulation of their publications.

They are also giving active support to the principle that advertising space should be bought and sold only on the basis of audited information — a principle that has contributed in large measure to the interests of all advertisers.

In Canada, the Canadian Jewish Review is still the only Jewish publication printed in any language reaching the Jewish community which is able to claim membership in the Audit Bureau of Circulations.

PAUL BUNYAN KNOCKED DOWN A LOT OF TIMBER BEFORE THEY TIED HIS ARMS TO HIS SIDES... BUT OUR CHARLIE BUSHWACKER SUFFERED NO SUCH RESTRICTIONS IN HIS FARM WOODLOT BACK IN 1935...
DENUDED TREES!! THEY TAKE ALL THE GOOD OUT OF THE LAND
WITH THE TREES GONE, TEN YEARS OF GRAZING AND EXPOSURE TO THE EROSIVE FORCES OF NATURE HAVE CREATED GULLIES AND WASTE-LAND ON CHARLIE'S HILLS
BY JINGO, SOMETHING IS WRONG HERE... I'LL SLIP OVER AN' SEE JACK SMITH. HE STILL HAS A GOOD BUSH
HOW COME, JACK, YOU CAN TAKE OUT YOUR FIREWOOD EACH YEAR AN' STILL HAVE A GOOD BUSH? MY WOODLOT ISN'T WORTH A HOOT
WELL, CHARLIE... YOU GOTTA KEEP THE CATTLE OUT, AND CUT ONLY THE MATURE TREES... I'VE BEEN DOING JUST THAT FOR TWENTY YEARS!
SAY... HE GAVE ME A REAL LECTURE ON HOW TREES HOLD THE TOPSOIL AN' SNOW AN' KEEP OUR WELLS FLOWING... I THINK MAYBE THE CONSERVATION BUG BIT HIM AT AN EARLY AGE...
WHY THE HECK DIDN'T IT BITE ME AT THE SAME TIME !!!

The value of woodlots is tremendous. They provide farmers with wood for their own use and for sale and, more important, they help keep nature in balance by preventing spring floods and summer drought. Remember—nature in balance is nature unspoiled.
